BAND LEADS HOME CROWD AT THE ST. PAUL DAIRY SHOW

La Crosse County Sends Strong Delegation to the National Exposition

WEST SALEM BAND PLAYS AT THE STATIONS ENROUTE

Interesting Programs Feature Event on Wisconsin Day

By VILAS J. DOYLE
ST. PAUL.—Through the delegation from the La Crosse district to the National Dairy Show which left La Crosse Wednesday noon, was a band of 31 strong, was in evidence under the auspices of the La Crosse River Valley Creamery association. The natives of Winona and other towns along the route were regaled with inspiring music as the band played with the coach windows open.

Though, so far as is known, there are no La Crosse county cattle being exhibited at the national show, the various well known breeders of the county are making the trip to look over the "other fellows' stock, hoping to profit thereby.

Thursday has been designated as "Wisconsin Day" at the national show, and naturally, the greatest interest of the La Crosse district visitors is centered in the events of that day. Special programs have been arranged for Wisconsin's representatives.

The band, and most of the others, repaired at once to the St. Pauls hotel on arriving in St. Paul, though some, who had reservations made in advance, and had good friends on deck to pilot them around, went immediately to the show which is being held at the Minnesota state fair grounds.

Horse Show Held

The big event on Wednesday night's program was the Port Spelling horse show, which is being presented in conjunction with the national dairy show.

The following made the trip over the Milwaukee road Wednesday: J. E. Briggs, Homer, Alex. Anderson, John, John, Mrs. V. S. Koppel, Holmen; Louis Peterson, Holmen; Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Nuttleman and daughter, Catherine, West Salem; Henry D. Wickham, West Salem; Ernest Rhodes, West Salem; E. E. Dean, West Salem; H. W. McDonald, West Salem; Michael Olson, La Crosse; John Larson, West Salem; L. E. Sander, West Salem; A. O. Jostad, West Salem; F. H. Burgess, V. J. Boyle, La Crosse Tribune.

FEDERAL AGENTS VISIT INN ON SALEM ROAD HUNTING FOR EVIDENCE; THEY GET

IT WAS a chilly night, with lots of icy, penetrating fog. Along the north Salem road two men chugged in a motor car. About the time they crossed the railroad tracks just east of the Onalaska road intersection they developed a thirst. Ahead of them gleamed the lights of a wayside inn.

Aha! A haven of rest, a place where the thirst could be quenched and the inner man "het up," so they thought, that is to say, the two men in the motor thought so. Up to the entrance of the inn they chugged. Soon they were enjoying the warmth within. The bonfire was behind the bar. The place looked congenial.

"We want a drink; we're thirsty and tired," the travelers said to the bonfire. This remark brought a quick, scrutinizing look from mine host.

"We don't sell anything harder than pop here," he said. Then ensued much parley, heap much mixing of medicine.

"Well, I'll tell you," said mine host, "if I knew that you fellows were all right I might be able to find a drink of hard liquor for you." The travelers assured mine host that "they were all right; oh yes, yes, they were all right."

"Now I'll tell you something else," said mine host. "You can get this stuff, this white liquor, elsewhere for 35 and 50 cents, maybe. I can't sell it for that price. I want a dollar a drink. The travelers agreed that was fair enough. They put a five-spot on the bar. Two nice, tall white-licker drinks came sliding across the bar. The travelers pocketed their change. Then they seized their drinks, drew bottles out of their pockets and poured the contents of the glasses therein.

"Well, good night, old man," said the travelers. "And by the way you had better come down town and see Judge Brindley in the morning."

"How come?" mildly inquired mine host.

"You know why," said the travelers. "We're federal prohibition agents."

"Sure you are; I knew it all the time," responded mine host, still using his mild-mannered tones. "But before you leave you had better make sure what it is you poured into those bottles."

The federal agents took mine host's tip.

The contents of the bottles was nice, clean, pure, sparkling well water. And they had paid a dollar a "shot" for it.

CONFESSION FALSE CLAIMS SCHNEIDER HAYES TO GO FREE

Case Against Youth Breaking Down and Investigators Follow Other Clues

WIDOW OF MURDERED PASTOR AGAIN IN THE LIMELIGHT

Detectives Examine Clothing Dyed Since the Murders

SOMERVILLE, N. J.—Raymond Schneider this afternoon repudiated the alleged confession in which he accused Clifford Hayes, 19, of the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills. It was unofficially announced that Hayes probably would be released before night.

Schneider, in his repudiation declared that neither he nor Hayes had anything to do with the murders. He had accused Hayes, he said, out of revenge, because he had been informed that Hayes had made statements accusing him of knowing something about the slayings.

"I lied about Hayes," his statement said, "because he and Pearl Bahmer, in statements to the Middlesex authorities lied about me when they said I was on the Phillips farm on the night of the murder. I thought they were trying to get me into trouble and have me accused of the murders."

Mrs. Hall in Limelight
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—By The Associated Press.—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, was brought back into the limelight by investigators of the murder of her husband and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills today when detectives visited her home and took away a scarf and fawn colored coat which she had dyed by a Philadelphia firm shortly after the murders were discovered.

The garments were taken to the offices of a firm of chemists with the request that they be analyzed to determine whether there was any human blood on the garments.

Mrs. Hall, according to witnesses, wore a coat of similar color early on the morning of September 15 when she was entering her home, a few hours after the murders are known to have been committed.

She has told the authorities that she had been to the church house to seek Mr. Hall, worried because he failed to come home. Her brother, Willie Stephens, accompanied her to and from the church, she said. Witnesses who saw her enter declared she returned alone.

The new trail, taken by the authorities in examining Mrs. Hall's clothing followed a day of reports that the case against Clifford Hayes, 19, who is under arrest charged with the murder, was breaking down and that new leads had been discovered pointing in other directions.

BRITAIN TO PAY 50 MILLION INTO U. S. TREASURY

Check for First Payment of Interest on War Loan to be Turned Over Monday

REFUTE CHARGE THAT U. S. IS HOLDING ALOOF FROM EUROPE

Will Lend Money for Reconstruction But Not for War

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Checks for $50,000,000 are rare even on these days of big finance, but a check for that amount will be turned over to the United States government Monday on account of Great Britain's interest on her war loans from the United States.

France Can't Meet Debts

PARIS.—France will be unable to meet any part of her debts for the next four years, as all available receipts for that period must be devoted to reconstruction of the devastated regions, according to the Paris Herald, which quotes "one of the highest authorities of the French ministry of finance."

U. S. Not Holding Aloof

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States, in the opinion of administration leaders, is not holding aloof from Europe and leaving it in the lurch as publicly charged many times recently both at home and abroad.

Billions of good American dollars, it is officially declared, have been poured into Europe from the United States with government sanction since the armistice and are now being used in the economic and financial rehabilitation of countries which suffered from the world war.

In the opinion of administration officials it is inevitable that American capital should seek investment abroad. With the United States the greatest creditor nation in the world and with the American dollar at such a premium that few countries can afford to purchase American products the administration realizes that the only sound method of restoring exchange is for American capital to seek investment abroad.

Europe Obtains Loans

American bankers in general have shown an entire disposition to work with the state department in the matter of placing loans only where they will be of constructive benefit. Since Hughes are committed to a policy of limitation of armament they naturally look forward to the time when European nations will find it possible to reduce their land armaments as well as their naval armaments. Therefore it is to be expected that the state department would frown upon any proposal by an American banking group to lend money to a European power which was known to be contemplating the use of that money in preparation for war.

Through various notices given American banking groups by the department, bankers have been fully apprised of the wish of the department to be consulted before any such investments are made, and it is stated officially that there has been thus far no ground for complaint on either side.

300 PERSONS ABOARD TAKE TO LIFEBOATS

Fire Breaks Out Aboard New Steamer City of Honolulu on First Trip to Hawaiian Islands

STEAMER ENTERPRISE RUSHING TO RESCUE OF BURNING VESSEL

Radio Calls Unanswered and it is Believed All Have Left the Ship

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—By The Associated Press.—The passengers and crew of the liner City of Honolulu, burning at sea, abandoned at 10:10 o'clock Thursday morning, are facing fourteen hours in open boats before the first ship reaching them to rescue can reach them.

The army transport Thomas is expected to beat the Matson Navigation company's vessel, Enterprise, in the race to the castaways. The Thomas, according to wireless messages from her commander, should reach the scene of the disaster at 1 o'clock Friday morning.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—With some 300 passengers aboard, the Los Angeles Steamship company's new steamer City of Honolulu, was reported by wireless Thursday afternoon to have left San Francisco on the return trip of its voyage between Los Angeles and Honolulu.

Passengers on the burning steamer were leaving the ship in lifeboats at nine o'clock, according to a wireless message received by the Federal Telegraph company in San Francisco. Thirteen minutes before the passengers began to leave the burning vessel the boats were lowered, the message said. The company did not expect to receive further messages unless the radio operators remained on the vessel, and radio calls to the steamer from nine o'clock to nearly ten o'clock were not answered.

It was thought that all persons aboard the vessel had taken to the boats.

The City of Honolulu, a shipping board vessel of 1500 tons, was allocated to the local company for six months trial for service between this city and the Hawaiian Islands. It left September 23 with more than 300 passengers, mostly tourists, and it is believed a large number of these were returning on the vessel.

Three Ships Near

The position of the steamer at 5:58 o'clock was given at latitude 31.7 north and longitude 131.4 west, according to the last radio known here to have been received from the vessel, which was picked up by the federal company branch station at San Francisco. Three vessels are known to be near the steamer, the transport Thomas, and the steamer Enterprise and City of Los Angeles.

The message as received here was addressed to the steamer Enterprise, which was in latitude 32.17 north and longitude 136.12 west. The message said the Honolulu was "lowering boats now," and asked the Enterprise "if she was coming."

Repeats Call for Help

Twelve minutes before the Honolulu vessel was lowered, the burning boats put out an S. O. S. call at the same time. This was at 5:30 o'clock. This message repeated the previous position of the burning steamer. In addition to the S. O. S. call, the Honolulu said "a very bad fire was raging" on the vessel and immediate assistance was asked.

The Matson Navigation company, owners of the steamer Enterprise, which is bound from Hawaii to the mainland, said their vessel was rushing to the assistance of the burning liner and should reach her between noon and one o'clock.

A message received by the Enterprise and relayed to the Matson offices here gave the position of the imperiled vessel as "1,406 miles east of Honolulu."

Fire Beyond Control

SAN FRANCISCO.—By The Associated Press.—The fire on the steamer City of Honolulu was beyond control at 10:10 a. m. Thursday and the ship was being abandoned by the captain, chief engineer, first officer and radio operator, the last four aboard the vessel, a radio dispatch received here today said.

The steamer Enterprise, the nearest of three vessels to the Honolulu, had not reached the burning craft when the final message was sent. The message indicated, according to the Federal Telegraph company, which received it, that all of the passengers and crew had taken to the lifeboats.

The last message received from the ship, sent by the Radio Corporation of

OFFER ODDS OF TWO TO ONE AGAINST AN ELECTION IN BRITAIN

Assertions Made in Official Circles that Appeal to People Will Come Before Long

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE WILL NOT RESIGN IS CLAIM OF HIS FRIENDS

Declares Crisis Was Precipitated by Conservatives

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Odds of nearly two to one against an election before the end of the year are being accepted in the London insurance market, notwithstanding the positive assertions in the press and in political circles that an appeal to the country before Christmas is inevitable. The discrepancy thus manifested is significant of the complete uncertainty surrounding the political situation for the moment.

The morning newspapers again give over their chief columns to discussions, predictions and supposed revelations. Premier Lloyd George's friends continue to insist that he will not resign while others assert with equal confidence that he has determined to ask the country for a vote of confidence at the polls and that his speech at Manchester on Saturday will be the first gun fired in the great electoral campaign.

BLAINE POINTS TO BADGER SUCCESS AS A DAIRYING STATE

Wisconsin Governor in Address
Before National Dairy Exposition at St. Paul

DECLARES DAIRYING STABILIZES BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIES

Executive Traces Dairy Development of Past Fifty Years

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Dairying is the greatest stabilizing process in the economic life of agricultural sections of this country, Governor J. J. Blaine of Wisconsin declared in his address here today before the National Dairy exposition. The Wisconsin executive asserted that dairy farming stabilizes land values, stabilizes agricultural income and stabilizes the business and industries of the great agricultural regions.

Speaking of his own state, Governor Blaine said that "to maintain the dairy industry is to maintain our economic and industrial soundness and to promote dairy husbandry means the preservation of our agricultural standing. Wisconsin has kept this principle in mind for 50 years," he added, "and through protective legislation and wise leadership Wisconsin has attained a position as a dairy state of which it may well feel proud."

Traces Development

The governor's address, heading the exposition program on "Wisconsin dairy," traced the development of dairy farming in the state he represents, from the time it started 50 years ago as a struggling industry to its present position of leadership among the industries of the commonwealth.

"Under the leadership of large visioned men, our College of Agriculture, the dairy organizations and dairy cattle men, Wisconsin was able to carry out one of the most significant revolutions known to the history of agriculture," he said. "Its significance," the governor added, "is pre-eminently featured in the hills of fare of the great hotels of New York and London which today display 'Wisconsin cheese' as a mark of quality."

Wisconsin Stands High

"Wisconsin today stands first in the number of dairy cattle, having over 2,750,000 in the state, valued at $200,000,000. It stands first in the gallons of milk produced, reaching close unto one billion gallons, in the value of dairy products the state ranks first.

"In the production and value of cheese, Wisconsin far exceeds other states. It also ranks first in processed milk, producing one-fourth of processed milk of the United States.

"Wisconsin's progress has been progressive and constant. In the last ten years, our percentage increase in value of dairy cattle has been 222 per cent as compared with 126 per cent for the whole United States, and our percentage increase in production of milk has been over 60 per cent in comparison with 18.6 per cent for the whole United States.

Possibilities are Great

"The position that Wisconsin has attained in the dairy world gives added incentive to Wisconsin dairymen to make greater progress, and we have the possibility and opportunity for marked future expansion because of the vast undeveloped northern part of our state, a large part of which is significantly adaptable to dairy farming. "And even in the area almost wholly under cultivation, the possibilities and opportunity for future expansion are limited only by the ability and ingenuity of Wisconsin farmers in producing forage through new processes and specialization in producing a balanced ration. And I know of no limit as to the ability and ingenuity of Wisconsin farmers and dairymen."

"The future possibilities will be aided by the present movement in Wisconsin to increase the average production per dairy cow, in the elimination of disease among dairy cattle, and by the continual sifting of the scrub and the substitution of the superior quality and breeding, thereby bringing about better animals, better feeding methods, better care, and in addition there is less loss in the production of milk and better systems of distribution."

Prehistoric Corn

W. E. Meyer, of the bureau of ethnology, has found in Davidson county, Tennessee, stone-slab graves holding mortuary vessels filled with corn. The variety is that of many-rowed tropical flint, about half-way between true flint and popcorn. This corn was undoubtedly grown in prehistoric times. The same kind is found in the West Indies today, and beyond question there must have been, in those far-off days, communication between the West Indies and North America.—Scientific American.

NONPARTISANS HIT ROAD TAX PROGRAM OF COUNTY BOARDS

Proposals are Slap at Farmers and Small Taxpayers Says
League Manager

SCORES PROGRAM AS HAVING BEEN ORIGINATED BY HIRST

Declares Farmers Will Oppose
Proposed Plan of Taxation

MADISON, Wis.—Opposition to the highway taxation program proposed by the legislative committee of the county boards' association showed itself for the first time today when Chester G. Platt, state manager of the nonpartisan league, issued a newspaper statement attacking the proposals as a slap at Wisconsin farmers and small taxpayers.

"Wisconsin farmers generally will be astonished and shocked at the additional burden of taxation the highway department proposes to load upon them by taxing gasoline two cents a gallon, and requiring a double tax to be paid each year on automobiles," Mr. Platt said, referring to the changes suggested by the recent conference of the county boards' association legislative committee.

He referred to the recent Nonpartisan league farmers conference for tax reform which urged a graduated tax on automobile valuation for raising road funds, and stressed throughout his statement the proposal for an increased tax on in-penal for to raise money for highway construction.

Throughout his statement, Mr. Platt alludes to the county board program as a program of A. R. Hirst, highway engineer. He said that the proposals made for a gasoline tax, a tax on automobile valuation and an additional license on all cars can only be defended by saying that if a man does not want to pay high taxes he has no business to be a farmer.

Farmers Will Fight It

"The farmers will oppose the program of Mr. Hirst and I believe the legislature will defeat it, if it is presented, because it is in flagrant opposition to the taxation plank of the La Follette progressive platform which says that those who are best able to pay should bear the heaviest burden," Mr. Platt continued.

He added that the proposals to raise a larger share of highway taxes from users of the road was in opposition to Governor Blaine's recommendation to the last legislature that the income tax payer should bear some of the burden of good roads.

"Mr. Hirst's tables show that he needs about $10,000,000 for his highway program," Mr. Platt declared. "Could any reasonable person find fault if we were to reduce real estate and other property taxes to $87,000,000 and increase income taxes to $10,000,000? Only those who are making profits have any income tax to pay. No man ever lost his farm, or his home, or his business on account of income taxes."

Mr. Platt said that there is in Wisconsin "nearly $400,000,000 of annual taxable income, and very little of it represents farm profits."

"In addition to the iniquitous license tax of $10 on all cars regardless of their value an additional one is to be levied and collected by the secretary of state amounting to two per cent of the value of the machine," the statement said. "This plan calls for striking automobiles off the personal property tax list but this will reduce the amount of taxable property and necessitate a higher rate of taxation in each taxation unit."

"M. Hirst points out that taxes on real estate are now reaching the 'maximum.' They are, I suppose by 'maximum' he means a sum which takes all the profit out of real estate ownership. But nowhere in Mr. Hirst's discussion of the taxation question does he intimate that he knows of such a tax as an income tax. While our property taxes yield $97,000,000 and take nearly all the profit out of owning real estate, our income taxes yield only $5,000,000 or $6,000,000."

"Why should not the next legislature go at least a little way toward remedying the injustice that makes the owner of a $5,000 farm pay five or six times as much in taxes as does the owner of $5,000 in stocks, bonds or mortgages?" Mr. Platt asked in concluding.

The Fight is On

IT WAS to be expected that Monroe and Vernon counties would take the lead in swinging in behind the movement for an all-year all-weather road across the state from Madison to the Mississippi. There are no more progressive counties in the western part of the state, and none that have displayed a greater interest and appreciation of good roads. They could not fail to sense the importance of comfortable touring highways which would open their lovely valleys to the admiring eye of the summer visitor, as well as speeding up and increasing the business motor traffic which is already a marked feature on the existing roads. That both Sparta and Viroqua are at work on the proposition indicates that there will be keen competition between Routes 21 and 11 for priority in completion. And one suspects that when Cashton, Reedsburg, Ontario and other communities along No. 33 realize what is going on there will be some strenuous effort to overtake these two leaders on the part of this middle road. As for La Crosse, since all three roads head into this city, we have no favorites to play. We're for all of them, and are ready and willing to give each every assistance and support in our power. Indeed, we've already put our county's share of all three into pretty good shape. But we don't consider our job done thereby, by considerable. If Viroqua, or Sparta, or Reedsburg or any other town on one of the three possible routes wants any assistance in our power to extend, they may count upon it. Our earnest hope and expectation is that ultimately all three of the highways may be constructed as through routes to Madison. Each has undoubted credentials as to distance or scenic individuality which makes it worth while, and tourists seeking this or that pleasure will choose between them, when all are finished, accordingly. Priority means, simply, that the communities along the route first finished will have the cream of the traffic, and will establish their highway as the favored line of travel before the rest. Sparta, Viroqua and the other cities and towns without doubt realize this, and we expect that the coming year will see a pretty race between them for these first honors and benefits.

Issues on Ice

LOYD GEORGE, so rumor has it, is beginning to think again of a general election in England which shall test public approval of his policies. The same rumor was rife before the Genoa and Cannes conferences, some harsh critics even venturing to declare that the chief purpose of these discussions, convened at Lloyd George's behest, was to furnish a diplomatic success upon which the British prime minister might perch himself for a campaign. But these rumors preceded those conferences, and died after their results were known, which places them in a somewhat different light from the current report, which has sprung up since the settlement with the Turks at Mudania. Evidently the prime minister figures the vindication of his position on neutrality of the straits—although all else was lost—as an issue which can be ridden successfully through an election. Incidentally, one may consider this system of the British in relation to our method of taking a plebiscite on public affairs. It seems rather a safer and more direct way than ours. We vote for men first, and measures second, owing to our rigid system of election at stated periods. In England elections generally are fought upon a direct issue found in the accomplishments or failures of the party in power. In the United States politicians generally try to arrange that vital decisions as to policy shall be taken as long as possible before election, so that the heat aroused by them shall have time to cool when the voters record their choice. An excellent example of the way this works is to be found in the last presidential election, in which the issue was nominally the league of nations, but in which the league actually played an insignificant part. That the result would have been considerably different had the election been held when the question of American membership was still alive in men's minds will probably be conceded by every one conversant with the matter. The question had been decided months before the people had a chance to express themselves, and in the meantime a hundred different major and minor issues were injected into the political debate. The people were presented with an accomplished fact, and being interested much more in current matters than in water that had already gone by the mill, the "great and solemn referendum" on the league of nations was obviously not that at all.

We did not enter the league, and it may prove to have been wise that we did not, although this newspaper has no apologies to make for its support of the league then and since. But as an abstract proposition, of which this is but one instance, cited because the point is clear and the memory of it still fresh, we suggest that it is better democracy to canvass the people's will while the question upon which the verdict is presumed to be given is still fresh and vital.

One of the most hopeful symptoms in the European situation (outside of Russia) has been the quick and effective stamping out of bolshevism wherever it threatened to be a menace. It has no chance of development in Germany unless there is an economic collapse. In that event, it is idle to speculate on what will happen. Czechoslovakia had a harder tussle with it than Austria. One would have expected quite the reverse. The Hungarian experience is well known. The social democrats in Austria are quite radical in their views but they have evidently not been impressed with the Russian experiment.

The most impressive demonstration of an aroused public opinion brings to a discussion of European matters the Fascist organization of Italy. The sober-thinking Italian middle class averted a very serious situation. A well known writer from Milan in discussing the development of Fascism said: "In Italy our middle classes are historically distinguished by more pronounced and widely diffused idealism than any other classes. They are neither intoxicated with the wine of wealth nor stupefied by the narcotic of want." They include the intellectual, the professional, the industrial, the intellectual of Europe have been most potent in cutting away the moorings of imperialism, militarism and radical conservatism.

In the reaction that followed the war, Italy, particularly in the northern parts, had many more people that she could feed. In the twenty years preceding the war, many families in Italy were supported by members that were laboring in America. The prohibitions imposed by our immigration laws put a stop to the large flood of common labor and added somewhat to an already perplexing condition in Italy.

The time seemed to be ripe for bolshevik propaganda. There were evidences of an active movement in many places. Almost over night a million men seemed to rise out of the earth, giving expression by words and force where necessary, to the common sentiment of the country. Thousands of soldiers who had served during the war were a part of it. Their spirit was militant and their purpose so resolute that the leaders soon realized their mistake.

Numerous Political Groups Bother Italy

The difficulties that have surrounded governmental affairs in Italy seem to have come from the growth of too many political groups. The agrarian bloc as we call it in America, is in evidence in Italy, too. Existing political units have multiplied and the line of cleavage is so clearly drawn that it has been quite impossible to assemble a legislative majority in support of a concrete policy. It was

Due Process of Law

By H. IRVING KING

"Frank," said Elihu Goodwin, corporation lawyer, to his confidential clerk, "I have a mission of a rather private nature which I want you to undertake—just to oblige me; it's hardly business years ago, when naturally I was younger than I am now and a trifle more foolish, I had a rather intimate acquaintance named Reginald Fountain. We belonged to a speed set, I am afraid."

The lawyer turned toward the window and gazed intently out over the city; a reminiscent look came into his usually impassive face.

"Reggie had plenty of money in those days," he continued, "and went the pace. I saw little of him after I married, for I put away childish things and now—well, I am fairly prosperous and a sober citizen. But Reggie, although he married, kept stopping on the edge. I have said he went through his own fortune and his wife's too. Some say she died of a broken heart. However, for years I had heard nothing of Reginald Fountain until today I got a letter from him."

"It's a barely disguised begging letter," said the clerk, "and set just low the land. You wouldn't mind helping him a little if it would do him any good—if he really needed help. If I went to see him personally at first—well, it might be awkward for I can't do much for him. I really can't afford to. But you go and see and report to me. Then I'll know just what to do."

Now, Elihu Goodwin was rich and, as they say down east, "mighty nigh" he never did like to meet poor people and the dislike had grown upon him with the years. Still, Goodwin felt that he could not entirely disregard Fountain's appeal. There stirred in him vague recollections of financial transactions in the dim past in which he had been the beneficiary of Reginald's borrowed and forgotten sums. Frank made the visit as requested by his employer and found the shattered wreck of him who had once been the gay and reckless Reginald Fountain reclining in an easy chair in a cheap flat. The young man explained to him that "important business" had prevented Mr. "Goodwin," etc., and he had sent him (Frank) "to ascertain how he (Goodwin) could be of assistance," etc.

"One instant," said Reggie, "into a rambling tale of woe, the only salient facts of which appeared to be that both Reginald's finances and Reginald's liver were in a sadly deplorable condition. While he was rambling on a door opened and a light footstep was heard. "Ah," said Fountain, "my daughter, Bertha, come here." In response to the summons there appeared a slender young woman of about twenty-five, with a face as fair as a Madonna's and beauty that was a deadly enemy to her. She was the portion of Bertha Fountain no one could doubt who gazed upon her. But she had left as that day, and a look of sweetness and resignation which added to the charm of her countenance. Frank, for the first time in his life, comprehended the idea of a woman and when, after a short conversation in which he somehow learned that Bertha was a stenographer in a downtown office, he left the flat and took his homeward way. He was in such a state of sentimental distress that he found himself in the uptown station of the elevated when he wanted to take a downtown train.

The next morning, Frank made his report to his employer. He said nothing about Bertha except that she was his father's sole support. "A pale, thin, creature, I suppose," said Goodwin.

"No-o-o," stammered Frank, "she is—er—good-looking." He changed the subject abruptly.

"Well," said the lawyer, "I suppose I really ought to go and see Fountain. I will attend to it tomorrow."

He made the call and the results followed rapidly. Fountain moved into another and more expensive flat and little evidences of luxury and ready money began to appear upon the face of Goodwin, who had been a widower for six years and had two married daughters and numerous grandchildren, began to spruce up and indulge in outrageously youthful cravats. He was a constant caller at the Fountain flat. It was as plain as the nose on the face of a Roman senator—the lawyer had picked out Bertha for Mrs. Goodwin number two and father was prepared to hand her over for a pecuniary remuneration.

Frank was frequently an ambassador for his employer to the Fountain establishment, and in one way or another he and Bertha managed to see a good deal of each other. He saw, and Bertha saw, what was up, but it never seemed to enter the heads of their elders that what they thought concerning it was of any moment whatever. Frank and Bertha, however, resented their own opinions as of the greatest importance.

The law clerk saw that he must sue out two processes in the court of love—a permanent injunction to restrain his employer and a writ of habeas corpus for the possession of Bertha.

But there were the two married daughters whom some one had informed of their father's foibles. Here Elihu was above anonymous letters—and who were on their way, the one from Portland, Maine, and the other from Chicago, with all their children to protest. But in the efficacy of the pretensions of married daughters Frank had little confidence. There remained the Mrs. Gullen, widow of Gullen, the butter king, fat, fat and forty-five and with a million in her own right. About two years ago, when, in one of his marrying spells, had fixed his affections upon the widow—and her money! He had been quite broken up and cross as he had been for two months when she suddenly went off to Europe. Frank picked up the morning paper and saw the widow's name in the list of arrivals by steamship. Here was hope! Goodwin was her attorney—had been her husband's. She was sure to visit his office for her two months' visit.

Perhaps thought Frank Elihu would have on the one hand a girl, young and beautiful to be sure, but penniless and Bohemians, Hungarians and Serbs had been fretting at the leash for a long time.

Austrian Royalty Helpless In Crisis, Is Report

It is unnecessary to recall the national ambitions which these races held. Enforced measures had developed the seeds of revolution. It might be recited pertinently in this connection that the killing of the Austrian grand duke in Serbia was the match that fired the magazine of war. The remnants of the old Hapsburg regime contended that Franz-Joseph, who was tottering and senile, and his successor, Carl, were both unequal to the task.

A story is told in Vienna of the old emperor. War had actually been declared several days before he knew anything about it. One of his ministers was finally selected to advise him of what had happened. Without waste of words the announcement was made that the declaration of hostilities had come. Franz-Joseph, with remaining impressions of the last conflict between Germany and Austria, said, "Ah! good! I hope we whip the Dutch this time."

Speaking of Carl brings to mind a piece of information which was supplied by a reliable journalist from a sentina. A very wealthy ranchman purchased a rope of pearls from the Empress Zita, wife of Emperor Carl, for over one million dollars. All the proceeds were expended in organizing and carrying out Carl's last adventurous attempt to regain the throne. Duplicitous on the part of important persons who were paid by Carl for assistance which was never given, is charged.

The journalist in question recently visited the former Empress Zita in Spain. She is living in circumstances of financial stress. An old castle has been turned over to her by the Spanish government and except for the support which has come from the household of King Alfonso, she and her children would be in absolute want. She bitterly reflects upon the contrasting conditions of her life and that of the kaiser. He is said to be living in comfort and she cannot understand why something is not done for the Hapsburgs.

Ills of New States Held Largely Imaginary

Returning to the question of frontiers affecting what is now Austria and the three successor states, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia, one frequently encounters the expressed belief that out of the ruins of the war have come more confusion and distress than were witnessed under the old order. The logical response to this is that had as the situation, in any case, it would ultimately have been worse if imperialistic rule, secret diplomacy and recurrent wars of conquest had gone on. A man who has undergone a major surgical operation ordinarily believes a day or two after it has been performed that the measures of relief are worse than the disease itself. In time he realizes that the germ would have been fatal and that his experience, even though it involves great suffering, brings ultimate recovery. The success of the new order obviously presupposes that the recognition of national rights is to be enforced by an insistent world opinion in the future. If this is not to be, then civilization, as we understand it, lacks the potential elements of self-preservation.

The treaty was made by human hands. No one has contended that the work is perfect. The war which had come to an end was not fought by two nations. Elements had entered into it that were based upon the national aspirations of sundry and distinct racial groups all over the continent. The time came when the loose ends of extensive disorganization had to be put together. Authority had to be established and this involved the laying out of frontiers. Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Yugoslavia do not possess homogeneous populations now. It may be that illogical combinations have been made. If that be true, and tranquility is to be promoted by altered boundary lines, the changes must come under the developing process of peace and justice. Two questions that persist are first, why so much of Hungary was given to Roumania, and second, why Austria was made a land-locked country while the independent city of Danzig was created in order to give Poland an outlet to the sea. The Hungarians are deeply aggrieved over the loss of population, fertile lands and the rich coal mines in Potoszany and Steierdorf. One is inclined to the thought that it might have been better to have made Trieste an open port under the control of the League of Nations, the same as was done with Danzig.

A double-tracked railroad running from Trieste to Lemberg, now crosses the territory of what is now Yugoslavia, Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland. It is one of the most important arteries in Europe and is vital to an economic situation involving many millions of people. Quite obviously economic order is dependent upon harmony between these nations. If they do not recognize the importance of governmental accord, then Trieste may become a commercial morgue.

STATE EDUCATIONAL BUILDING PLANNED AT WISCONSIN "U"

New Institution Will House all of State's Educational Activities

MADISON, Wis.—A state educational building to be situated on the campus of the University of Wisconsin to house the headquarters and departments of all the state's educational activities will be proposed to the 1923 session of the legislature by the state board of education. The proposed building would cost about $200,000 and besides centralizing all the educational activities of the state would greatly relieve the present shortage of room in the state's $9,000,000 Capitol and the Capitol annex buildings.

That a bill for this purpose will be introduced in the next legislature was the prediction today of Secretary E. A. Fitzpatrick of the state board of education.

The proposed building would house the state board of education, the state board of vocational education, the university regents, the board of normal school regents, the free library commission, the president of the university, the university department of education, and the state superintendent of public instruction. It is said that such an arrangement would greatly facilitate the handling of educational affairs and the gathering of the educational statistics which are so necessary for each department.

By means of such a building the state would at the same time solve the problem of needed additional room. At the present time senate and assembly committee rooms are being used by several departments which will have to be located elsewhere when the legislature meets the middle of January. If the educational departments were to be moved from the Capitol the rooms left vacant would not only house all the departments now pressed for room but would obviate the necessity of using the committee and office rooms of the assembly and senate when they were not in session.

RITTER AWARDED $72 JUDGMENT IN SUIT OVER A DOG

Albert Ritter who sued William French over a hunting dog was awarded a judgment for $72.75 damages and allowed costs of $14.54, making a total of $87.29, by Judge C. W. Hunt. Ritter started an action in trover or conversion of a dog, the charge being that French used the dog to hunt with in Minnesota. French claimed that the dog came to his home and the next day he took him hunting in Minnesota. When he returned to La Crosse, French says he turned the dog loose in his yard. That was the last he saw of him. French said. Ritter says he never did see his dog again. That was a year ago last fall. Lucien Reid represented Ritter and Stanley Gordon was French's lawyer.

HISTORY OF STATE CAPITOL BUILDINGS DEPICTS GROWTH OF WISCONSIN AS A STATE

MADISON, Wis.—The growth of Wisconsin from a struggling frontier territory to a state, holding a position of eminence among the commonwealths of the nation, is reflected in the history of its capitol buildings, J. G. D. Mack, state chief engineer, believes.

Mr. Mack has just completed a study of the state houses which have served as the seat of Wisconsin government since first the territorial legislature met at Belmont on October 25, 1836. The story of development is told by the gradual transition during the past 86 years from the dingy structure that served for half a century as a barn after being discarded by the territorial legislature, to the present magnificent building that ranks among the most beautiful public edifices in the world.

Wisconsin's first capitol building is now transformed from a barn and back at its old site at Belmont, now Leslie, a center of historical interest. This frame structure, 25 by 40 feet, was built in 1836 and was used by the territorial legislature during its 46 day session. It now stands in a state park of two acres, with a monument marking the center of the original site.

The second building was constructed on the site of the present capitol at Madison. Although the territorial legislature first met here February 26, 1838, the building was not finally completed until 1845. This structure, Mr. Mack found, was constructed of sandstone from Maple Bluff on Lake Monona, and was 44 feet by 104 feet, with walls 30 feet high above the water table.

It was 1857 before the legislature found the needs of state government had outgrown the first Madison capitol. In that year the legislature passed an act to enlarge the building, but this plan developed into the construction of a new building between 1857 and 1869, when the central portion of the dome was finally completed. Wisconsin's government, carried on its affairs during the civil war in this structure which stood until partially destroyed by fire February 27, 1904.

Then came the building of the present capitol, peerless among the state houses of the country. The legislature of 1905 provided for the new capitol and construction commenced just sixteen years ago tomorrow. Eleven years was needed for the construction, with the final touches added in 1917.

This structure is 438.85 feet through each of its wings, the statue on the dome standing 285.9 feet above the esplanade, with the breadth of each wing 125 feet. The building

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat food too much, red meat and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water beverage and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

covers 2.42 acres of ground and cost, completed, $7,503,763.75.

"It is one of the most beautiful public buildings in the world and is the lowest unit cost building of its type ever built," Mr. Mack said. "While the cost was large it was but $3 per capita of the average population of Wisconsin during the period, and as the construction lasted thirteen years the per capita cost was 23 cents."

"The capitol was built on the cash basis by direct legislative appropriations and there never fell across it even the faintest trace of the shadow of graft."

With the continued growth of the state and the extension of its governmental activities the present building is now outgrown. An annex is in use here, and it likewise is now too small with further extensions made necessary when the legislature meets.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

INDUSTRIAL WAR IS PREDICTED BY U. W. PROFESSOR

Sees Rise of Capitalistic Feudalism Supplanting Democracy in the United States

MADISON, Wis.—The rise of "capitalistic feudalism" in the United States, supplanting democracy, was predicted by Dr. E. A. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin, unless the present increase in the power of private capital is not halted, in an address last night opening the state conference of social work.

"Industrial disputes are growing continually more intense," Dr. Ross said. "The problems they raise cannot be solved by co-operative plants, and socialism has utterly failed where it has been tried. My suggestion," he added, "is that industries involving large capital or directly affecting service to the public be bought up by the state, while smaller industries continue to be owned and operated privately."

This opening talk was followed by an address by Harry D. Baker, of St. Croix Falls, who described the tornado that swept through northwest Wisconsin last spring, devastating farms through three counties. He told of the social work that has been done to extend relief to the sufferers, and of the need for further financial assistance to the farmers affected by the storm.

F. M. Wilcox, chairman of the state industrial commission, talks this afternoon on industry and social work.

CHICAGOANS REFUSE TO REVEAL DETAILS OF GRAIN TRADING

Armour and Marcy on Stand in Inquiry of Federal Trade Commission

CHICAGO, Ill.—J. Ogden Armour, packer, and George E. Marcy, president of the Armour Grain company, principal witnesses Wednesday before the federal trade commission in its inquiry of trading in grain futures, are in conference with attorneys to determine to what extent they will reveal details of their transactions when they appear before the commission Friday.

Mr. Armour characterized himself as a "casual trader" in the grain market. He denied that Armour & Company, the packing-house, was interested in any grain deals in which he participated, asserting that the packing firm does not trade in grain futures.

In his preliminary testimony Mr. Armour said some of his grain transactions were handled by the Armour Grain company and some by other brokers, whose names he declined to reveal.

Both Mr. Armour and Mr. Marcy defended the board of trade as a necessary medium through which the farmer finds a sure and constant market for his grain.

"The former has a place to sell his grain every day in the year," Mr. Armour said. "He may not at times get the price he is entitled to, but I think it is stabilized conditions. Generally speaking, he is better off, I would say than without a speculative future market, because no man in the grain business would buy wheat until he had sold it, and you know that sometimes you have to carry wheat a long time before you can sell it."

NORDMAN TO VISIT FARMERS IN SOUTH SECTION OF STATE

MADISON, Wis.—Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, is going to make a personal tour through southern Wisconsin addressing farmers of the section who are members of the Wisconsin Milk Producers Cooperative association, he announced. An effort will be made to placate the farmers of the district who have criticized the marketing department for starting an action against the cooperative milk concern they are concerned with.

Since the action was commenced by the department of markets against the farmers' company, an Illinois corporation, newspapers and agricultural journals have attacked its policy, questioning the motives of the state officials for their activity.

Mr. Nordman declares that his department is only interested in seeing that the interests of Wisconsin farmers are protected and that it cannot sanction any trade methods that act to coerce farmers into association with an organization. He said that if the farmers are able to show him that their methods and policies are within the law, he will be glad to terminate the action now pending.

The commissioner of markets wished to acquaint himself intimately with the situation in the district and to meet the farmers personally.

CROP REPORT

Light to heavy rains Saturday and Sunday were beneficial for fall plowing and winter sown grains. The husking and shredding of corn and the drying of potatoes progressed. Pastures are in poor to fair condition, and much stock is being fed in southern counties. Tobacco in sheds is not curing well on account of dry weather. Sugar, beets, rutabagas, cabbage and soy beans harvested begin.

Will Hays Scheduled to Address Next Year's Synod; Session Closes Today

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Camp Cleghorn near Waupaca, Wis., was chosen as the meeting place of the Presbyterian synod of Wisconsin for next year, the gathering to be held as a ten-day camp from July 23 to 31. It was decided during the final session of the 1922 synod here Thursday.

Will Hays, supreme moving picture director, is scheduled to address the synod next year.

Hotel Built on Gold Mine Eight years ago a new hotel was constructed in Helena, Mont., on Main street which occupies the site of Last Chance gulch, where the placer miners worked in the sixties and extracted something like $30,000,000. The contractor who excavated for a foundation hauled the ground away, washed it in sluice boxes and made a tidy sum of money. It happened that the old-time placer miners didn't work the ground thoroughly. There are large areas of so-called placer ground in various parts of western Montana which contain gold and which, according to report, might be profitable if dredged on a large scale.—Chester C. BADGER STATE FEELS THE PINCH OF ACUTE SHORTAGE OF CARS

Worst in Past Forty Years Says Traffic Man on State Rail Commission

CAUSES OF SHORTAGE BEYOND CONTROL OF STATE OFFICERS

Many Cars Also Tied up as Result of Strike

MADISON, Wis.—That Wisconsin is experiencing the worst car shortage of the past forty years was the statement Thursday by R. V. Adams, head of the traffic department of the state railroad commission. That this shortage will cost growers and shippers and consumers of this state literally millions of dollars before it is materially relieved is the belief of Mr. Adams.

"This is the worst car shortage that I have seen in forty years of railway traffic experience," declared Mr. Adams. "We have reached the peak of the shortage here in Wisconsin but it will be at least thirty days before it will be in any material way relieved. In the meantime we have potato shippers declaring that they would ship in open gondola cars if they could get them, we have creameries manufacturing cheese that say their storage capacity has been reached and that without cars to ship they must shut their doors, and we have shipments of such crops as cabbage, sugar beets, and potatoes delayed to a point that will undoubtedly mean spoilage in some cases and inability to make sales even at low prices in others."

Mr. Adams declares that there are three main causes of the present car shortage, all beyond the control of the state authorities here. These causes are:

1. The demand for cars to ship one of the greatest fruit crops in the history of the far west. This demand takes all the refrigerator cars from Wisconsin and even then box cars are resorted to and fruit that cannot be shipped will be lost in the California region to the extent of "several million dollars."

2. The preferential and priority orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission which give shipments of grain, corn, hay, flour and foodstuffs preference. This means a shortage of box cars for the Iowa corn crop, for the grain of South and North Dakota and Minnesota, and similar foodstuffs.

3. Priority orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission that require gondola or open cars whose sides are more than 36 inches in height be sent to the southern coal fields. These cars may only be given loads if the loads are consigned direct south on the main lines. This means a shortage of gondola cars.

"In addition," continued Mr. Adams, "the recent strike practically tied up the repair work which means that there are numbers of cars awaiting repairs. Any statement, however, that this shortage is due to cars in bad repair is not true for the percentage of bad order cars is not higher at this time, materially, than in a normal period. There have been many times when we have had more bad order cars."

The traffic department of the state railroad commission is almost swamped with appeals for help from all parts of the state. The commission takes these cases up directly with the railroads and is able to alleviate in some part the damages that result from the car shortage but before the period is passed, Mr. Adams states that the shortage will have cost the state millions of dollars.

NEGRO BANDIT ROBS PULLMAN PASSENGERS ON WESTERN LIMITED

Boards Car at Kansas City and Completes Job Before City Limits are Reached

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Police are searching for a negro who late Wednesday night held up two Pullman cars of Santa Fe train No. 4, the California Limited, soon after it pulled out of the Union station here and robbed the passengers of an undetermined amount of cash and jewelry. The negro boarded the rear car just as the train left the station, and completed the robbery before the city limits were reached, leaving the train somewhere between Fifteenth street and Sheffield, a suburb.

The train did not stop, and a dispatch from Lexington Junction, about fifty miles east, gave the police their first information of the robbery. This dispatch was thrown from the train by the conductor, Mr. With another received later from Marceline, stated that after boarding the train, the negro ordered all passengers of the observation car to place their valuables on a folding chair. When they complied the negro picked up his tool and ordered the passengers to hold up their hands while he backed into the next car. Here he robbed all passengers with whom he came in contact. Then he made his way to the vestibule and escaped.

A Typographical Error

The circus was moving on to the next town and the tattooed man was engaged in a hot argument with the ticket agent.

"I'm telling you it must have been a mistake," repeated the latter. "You'll have to buy a full fare ticket to ride on this railroad."

"Well, it's a rotten injustice, that's all," retorted the pictorial prodigy. "Before this I've always traveled on the postage rate for printed matter."

Smart Costumes

A complete costume of fine soft lace in a toast-brown shade, with softly draped wide hat and full-skirted dress, was noted at a smart restaurant recently. A slender girl dotted Swiss frock with frequently fairly wide bands of self-color grosgrain ribbon running lengthwise was topped with a straw matching shape almost hidden by folded velvet ribbon in dark brown, slender and deep salmon.

Embarrassing

Mr. Peet, a very shy young man, was introduced to a fascinating young woman who, misunderstanding his name, addressed him constantly as Mr. Peters, much to his distress.

Finally summoning up courage he remonstrated.

"Oh, don't call me Peters—call me Peet."

"Ah, but I don't know you well enough," Mr. Peters, said the girl, blushing as she withdrew behind her fan. —Mobile Register.

HOODOO WILL FACE TOUGH SLEDDING ON FRIDAY THE 13TH

LADY LUCK, shivering in the first cold breeze from Friday the 13th, lurking just around the corner, raised her head again today.

Four leaf clovers are traditional weapons of offense and defense against the perils of Hoodoo Day. And four leaf clovers never have been so plentiful as they are in Wisconsin this year, experts in the clover chase said today.

Tomorrow is Friday. Also it is the thirteenth day of the month. Which is a bad combination. A dangerous one.

Mortality among rabbits possessed of left hind feet is expected to be great today and tomorrow. Dealers of particular perspicacity have laid in stocks of left hind feet (and right ones, for it's hard to tell the difference when the rest of the rabbit is detached) in preparation for the day.

MAXIMUM PRICE FOR HARD COAL IS AGREED UPON

WASHINGTON. — An agreement which is expected to result in fixing the maximum price of anthracite mined by "independent" operators at $9.25 per ton at the mines, has been reached between Pennsylvania authorities and Fuel Distributor Spens, representing the federal government. The agreement announced here Thursday by W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Pennsylvania fuel commission, is regarded by officials as assuring immediate reductions in the hard coal prices now charged by independent operators, controlling 20 percent of the output, thus removing a price discrepancy that has been the cause of complaint in all consuming territories.

LAKE STEAMER AGROUND

SAILTIE STE. MARIE, Mich.—The steamer A. T. Kinney went aground when blown from the channel in Lake lake by a 45 mile gale Thursday morning, a wireless message from the steamer Gieshe said. The steamer was upbound light and could not hold her course against the storm. A tug later released the steamer. Light snow, the first of the season, is falling here.

Mr. Thwing stated that he parked his car on Caledonia street about 7:30 in the evening, returning from the theater at about 9:30 when the machine was missing.

The theft was reported to Central police station but up until noon Thursday, no trace of the automobile had been located.

WISCONSIN DAY AT DAIRY SHOW BRINGS THROG OF VISITORS

Governors Blaine of Wisconsin and Preus of Minnesota Speakers of the Day

HAMLIN, Minn.—Thousands of visitors, principally from Wisconsin, thronged the National Dairy exposition grounds here Thursday in celebration of Wisconsin day. Governor Blaine of Wisconsin, and Governor Preus of Minnesota addressed a joint Minnesota-Wisconsin meeting.

It was decidedly a Wisconsin crowd that stormed the twin cities on every incoming early train, parading through the main streets in the two cities with blaring bands and buoyant banners proclaiming the advantages of Wisconsin as a dairying state.

The exposition, which in a single day this year has had a greater welcome than for the full week last year, is declared by officials to be the most successful in the history of the dairy association. It continues through Saturday.

Governor Blaine recalled that Wisconsin ranks first among the states for the value of its dairy products on the farm, first in the production and value of cheese, first in processed milk and second only in the number of pure bred dairy cattle and in production value of creamery butter.

METAL WORK MOST HAZARDOUS REPORTS PENNSY DEPARTMENT

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The metal trades led all industries in Pennsylvania in the number of industrial accidents during the first six months of 1922, while the laundry industry was one of the safest, the state department of labor and industry announced Thursday in a statement correcting figures issued September 27 which credited the laundry business with being the most hazardous in the state.

The statement, based like the previous one, upon a report of the workmen's compensation bureau, showed 13,561 accidents in metals and metal products, a total credited in the original tabulation, to the laundry industry, whereas the department said, there were only 112 accidents in that line.

OMAR (BIG) BENN UNDERGOES KNIFE AT HOSPITAL HERE

Has Sudden Attack of Appendicitis; Reported to be in Critical Condition

ILLNESS SHOCKS THOUSANDS OF BASEBALL FANS HERE

Removed to St. Francis from His Home Wednesday

Omar Benn was reported by Dr. Evans Thursday at 11 o'clock to be much improved today following the operation. "His fever is much lower today, but I have no reason yet to pronounce his condition anything but serious," Dr. Evans said.

THOUSANDS of La Crosse baseball fans, together with his circle of intimate friends were today shocked at the report that Omar (Big) Benn of baseball fame in these parts, is lying at St. Francis hospital in a critical condition resulting from a sudden attack of appendicitis and peritonitis.

News of Benn's illness has virtually upset thousands of baseball fans here and anxious inquiries were storming the news centers of the city today in an effort to learn exact details concerning the idol's condition.

Brought to the city by his local physician, Dr. R. W. Parks, Benn underwent an operation for appendicitis at 7:30 Wednesday night by Dr. MacCauley.

When further reports were received here, indicating seriousness of Benn's illness, Roy C. Davidson and Henry Wittenberg, president and business manager of the Nelson club, accompanied by Dr. Evans, Elmer Franz and John Tolson, set out for the hospital to see Benn and to learn the latest news of his condition.

From what was learned from his family, Benn was first attacked by pains early last Tuesday morning. Dr. Parks attended him constantly until he was brought to the local hospital Wednesday night.

The report of Benn's illness and operation spread rapidly over the city Wednesday evening. There was much speculation on the outcome of the final series battle. Jaeger and MacCauley were mentioned as the opposing batters for the game Sunday.

MOTHER OF JONES BROTHERS WANTS NEITHER TO WIN

MIDLETTOWN, Ohio.—Not since Tad and Howard Jones, when they as boys, captained rival "Burrhead" football teams on the campus at Xavier, had there been twenty years ago, has the population of that village been so excited over a football battle as it is today over the Yale-Lafayette classic scheduled at New Haven for next Saturday.

The entire population of 100 has chosen sides and there is but one person who has not expressed a choice. That is Mrs. T. A. Jones, mother of the two members. "She does not want either team to win," she is quoted as saying. "Let it be a draw, let it be a tie, let it be a loss, let it be a win, let it be a draw, let it be a tie, let it be a loss, let it be a win."

TWO NO HIT GAMES WERE PITCHING FEATURES OF THE MAJORS THIS SEASON

NEW YORK.—By the Associated Press.—Two no hit games, the seventh and eighth in the history of the major leagues, were the pitching features in 1922 baseball, a season marked by heavy and continuous hitting, according to semi-official figures.

Charlie Robertson of the Chicago White Sox sprang from a rookie's lowly estate to baseball fame, by turning back the Detroit Tigers without a hit on April 30 and Jess Barnes of the New York Giants' veteran, entered the hall of fame May 7, a week later by pitching almost perfect ball against the Philadelphia Quakers.

Robertson also added to his laurels by pitching a two hit game against the Boston Red Sox June 13. Two One-Hit Games

There were two one-hit games in the National league and none in the American but the younger organization led both in the number of two and three hit games that pitchers recorded. There were thirteen two-hit games in the American against five in the National and sixteen three-hit contests in the American compared to thirteen in the National.

Dill Doak of the St. Louis Cardinals twirled both the one-hit games, the first on May 11 against the Giants and the second on July 13 against the Philadelphia Quakers.

Urban Faber of the Chicago White Sox, and Stanley Coveleski of the Cleveland Indians, each pitched three-hit games and Van Gilder, the heavy hitting moundman of the Browns, finished two three-hit games in the American league's total of sixteen. Urban Shocker, another Brown star, finished one three-hit game himself and worked in another with Pitcher Bayne.

Jack Quinn of the Red Sox and Charlie Robertson of the Chicago White Sox were the only men in the American league to pitch both a three-hit and a two-hit game. Quinn accomplished the first against the White Sox on July 26 and the latter against the Indians on August 25. The other three-hit pitchers in the American league were: Leverette and Robertson, White Sox, Stoner, Tigers, Collins, Red Sox, and Harris, Athletics.

Herman Pilleto of the Tigers, turned in three two-hit games, an unusual accomplishment, and Joe Bush of the Yankees, twice let the opposition down with two hits. Other two-hit pitchers in the American league are Bayne, St. Louis; Robertson, White Sox; Quinn and Penock, Red Sox; Mays and Jones, Yanks; Erickson, Senators, and Uble of the Indians.

Two-hit pitchers of the National league are McNamara of the Braves, Aldrich and Osborne, Cubs; Jess Haines, of the Cardinals and Couch of the Reds.

Three-hit pitchers are Rixey, Doehue, Couch, Luque and Markle of the Reds; Shriver and Grimes, Robins; Meadows, Quakers; Toney, Giants, and Cooper and Adams, Pirates.

BABE RUTH SOLE CAUSE FOR YANKS' DEBACLE; WHEN BABE DIDN'T SLUG TEAMMATES KNEW THEY COULD NOT

NEW YORK.—Having no corner grocery stores where they could sit on cracker boxes, smoke stogies and "chow terbaccer," the fans of Gotham have bored down into the subway and rode around town consulting bone specialists, muscle rubbers and psychoanalysts to find some one with whom to chew the rag about the World's series just ended.

There's more truth than foolishness about the psycho-analytical idea. One Yankee fan, unable to find him in the box scores, approached a psychoanalyst and found out that Babe Ruth is almost the sole cause for his team's debacle. Babe didn't hit; no one else did. Not that the team blindly imitated Ruth, but that it couldn't avoid it.

JIMMY GILL IS REAL CLASS ON NEPONSET CARD

Flashy La Crosse Boxer Takes Measure of Tommy Carney, Spring Valley

NEPONSET, Ill.—Jimmy Gill, La Crosse, Wisconsin, speed boy, who bails from "Peanuts" Schiebler's stable, in Rock Island, won a decided victory over Tommy Carney, Spring Valley, in the ten-round main go of a high class boxing carnival offered by the Neponset American Legion Monday night.

About the sweetest boxer seen in these parts in many a day was Jimmy Gill, from "Peanuts" Schiebler's quarters, Rock Island, who won the ten round main go from Tommy Carney, Spring Valley. The fans marveled at his ability to manipulate a wicked left hand and the shifty and clever manner in which he side-stepped the dangerous haymakers aimed by the Spring Valley product. He was about the fastest thing seen in the squared arena in this vicinity in many a day. Speed was his middle name and he knew just where to locate the vital spots.

Gill won eight of the ten rounds, the third and seventh. Gill was easily the winner on points.

Kewanee fans were deeply impressed with the style of Gill and a number of "scouts" from the local Legion most have already spoken for him for the next show to be promoted here.

Young Shug, of Kewanee, challenged the winner of the Gill-Carney bout.

Tobacco's Action Largely Psychical

Tobacco smoke does not affect the human system in a direct physical way, it has been demonstrated. Its action is due to its psychical influence, through its taste, odor and the visual sensations it produces. Heavy smokers can tolerate doses of eight milligrams of the pure base of nicotine, whereas the non-habituated feel noticeable effects after a dose of one-half milligram of the drug.

WOMEN GOLFERS 'CLOSE SUCCESSFUL SEASON AT CLUB

Mrs. J. J. Ablett Wins Championship of La Crosse in First Season

The women's golf committee of the La Crosse country club is a recognized member of the Wisconsin Women's Golf association. Officers for the season of 1923 were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Charles J. Felber; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Tausche; treasurer, Mrs. John A. Bayer.

IOWA ENROUTE EASTWARD FOR INTERSECTIONAL CLASH WITH BULL DOG IN FAMOUS BOWL

IOWA CITY, Ia.—By The Associated Press.—Farmers of Iowa Thursday have forgotten about the price of corn; the market value of choice hogs and the usual talk about bumper or lean crops—all because twenty-five of their sons, members of the University of Iowa football eleven, 1922 champions of the Western conference, are on their way to New Haven, Conn., to play Yale in the Yale bowl Saturday in the biggest football game of Iowa's history.

Big for a score of reasons, among which are these: The rival teams are coached by brothers—Howard Jones and Brother Tad, famous mentor of the Yale eleven; that all Iowa has a sneaking notion that the black and gold eleven may conquer Yale or at least hold the Bull Dogs to a close score, and most important of all is the conviction that Iowa fights, no matter how tough the opposition. Iowa's championship eleven of a year ago made that slogan famous in the midwest. With the same fighting spirit Iowa promises to give Yale the fight of the year when the teams will meet at the bottom of the Yale bowl Saturday afternoon.

Howard Has Open Game

Coach Jones promises his famous brother everything in the way of the western open game that the west has to offer. His attack probably will consist almost entirely of shifts and passes, although he will have Gordon Locke, his great plunging full-back, at hand any time he elects to try the mauling of the Bull Dog line. Jones, himself a former Yale star and later an assistant coach there, will be well equipped to counter the Yale offensive.

Iowa's offensive is a mixture of the old and new in football. Captain Locke is used as the pivot for Jones' line smashing tactics while his two ends and two half-backs co-operate with the quarterback in the open passing and shifting game. The open style probably will be chiefly in evidence against Yale as Coach Jones has developed a system of shifts that he thinks will be effective.

Although Coach Jones lost seven letter men last year, his team has shown offensive strength this season. Captain Locke is at his old niche at full-back. In place of Aubrey Devine, all American quarterback, two men have been developed, Minick, a veteran guard, who has donned Devine's kicking toe, and is taking care of the punting and Parkin, who takes care of the generalship and the dispatching end of passes at quarterback.

Duck Slater Replaced

Duke Slater, the Giant negro, who last season was accustomed to take out one side of the opponents' line when gains were needed, has been replaced at tackle by Engledinger, a West Point man two years ago. Engledinger and his running mate Thompson, one of last year's veterans, scale at 200 pounds. Hancock has replaced Belding at end and is played opposite to Kadensky, a veteran end from last year's squad.

Johnny Heidt, who played center last year, is back and will wear against Yale if an offering of lumbar from which he is suffering permits. Jones has several sophomore centers capable of taking his place in case he is unable to play. Meade in Minick's running mate at guard. Meade was a member of Iowa's famous line last year and is one of Jones' most dependable forwards. Miller and Shuttleworth were utility back last season but both men won their letters and two are making a very satisfactory combination with Jones' new line-up.

Last year from the beginning of the season, Iowa began preparing for the peak of her football glory, the game with Yale. This year the Hawks, shorn of their four great stars still have their slogan determination that "Iowa fights."

BRUINS WIN THIRD BATTLE FROM WHITE SOX WEDNESDAY, 8-5

Repeat First Victory Over Hose; Series Now Stands, 2 to 1

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Nationals defeated their American league rivals, 8 to 5, on Wednesday in the third game to decide the city championship. The series now stands two games to one, in favor of the Nationals.

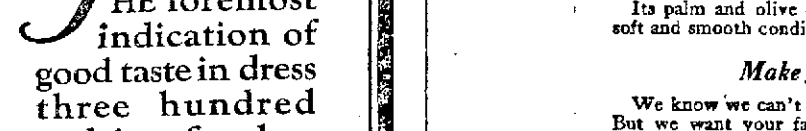

Ernie Osborne, who pitched the Cubs to the first victory, came back on Wednesday, with plenty of rest, owing to the four postponements and the open date last Friday, and triumphed over Red Faber, star of the White Sox pitching staff, who won the opening frame.

Faber was no match for the Cubs on Wednesday and they lambasted his offerings hard in two innings for five runs. Ted Blankenship came to the rescue, but before he had settled down Grimes uncorked a home run drive into the right field bleachers in the seventh inning with two mates on the bases and broke the tie, which the Sox had worked up to in the sixth.

Osborne was wild, but spectacular playing by Hollocher and Terry pulled him out of trouble. Wednesday's game was originally scheduled to have been played in the Sox park last Saturday. Rain has been responsible for the postponements. Score: Nationals—300 020 300—8 American—201 002 000—5 Batteries: Osborne and O'Farrell; Faber, Blankenship and Schalk.

VAUDEVILLE, MOVIES—MAJESTIC

Lynne and Loraye, billed as "the Beech nuts" in the Majestic vaudeville bill opening today, have the unique record of having deceived a southern audience as to their faces. They work in blackface, doing dark comedy, and on their tour below the Mason and Dixon line, where prejudice against negro performers is pronounced, they were white, so cleverly do they counterfeit the dark complexion in appearance and manner. Their act is a laugh-getter, too. Other acts on the bill are those of the Three Musical Pates, on brasses, strings and xylophones, Mand. Ellet and Company, girls who display great nerve and strength in feats on the trapeze and Spanish web, Noblet and Odden in comedy singing and dancing—"sax and class" and Joe Allen, a head balancer and roller skate expert.

The picture feature present Richard Dix and Helene Chadwick in "The Glorious Fool," a comedy drama written by Mary Roberts Rinehart. The story is laid in a hospital, and reports the actions of a sympathetic probationer and a rich patron who insists on marrying her that he may leave his money to her when he dies. Only he doesn't die. So when he recovers he has the arduous task of wooing his wife.

CASINO TODAY

You might go far and fail to find a more artistic type for Uncle Josh in "The Old Homestead" than Theodore Roberts. The Paramount picture version of the classic will be shown at the Casino theater tonight and has a wonderful cast, including besides Mr. Roberts, Harrison Ford, T. Roy Barnes, George Fawcett, Fritz Ridgway, Kathleen O'Connor, James Mason, and others.

Mr. Roberts with his beard fringing his under jaw, his bucolic clothing and manner his benevolence and ability to portray such a role, makes the character of Uncle Josh stand out delightfully.

"REMEMBRANCE"—RIVOLI

Nothing is more American than that national institution, the Thanksgiving Day Feast—nothing, that is, except a Rupert Hughes motion picture. And no picture that Rupert Hughes has ever written or directed is more American than his latest film "Remembrance," now at the Rivoli theater for the rest of the week.

In situation, in characters, in theme, plot arrangement, in details and in titles, "Remembrance" is distinctively American. No other country in the world save the United States could have produced it, and no other author or director in the United States save Rupert Hughes could have written and produced it. In no other country in the world is Father so insignificant—and yet so important—in his own family. There are Fathers in every country in the world but none quite like the American Father; heroic but no hero, the main prop of the family yet always in the shadowy background. His virtues and his defects are presented in sympathetic vein by Mr. Hughes so that "Pop" Grout in the play becomes a very real human being whom you would like to have for a friend and, if you haven't one already, for a father.

STRAND TODAY

All of the members of the Gareth Hughes cast appearing in his new photoplay, "I Can Explain," now showing at the Strand Theater, agree that one trip into Mexico is enough for them. They say that they can get all the excitement they want on this side of the boundary line.

Mr. Baker, planning to "shoot" street scenes on the American side of the border, went back to Mexico and obtained a band of Mexicans to participate. Early in the morning the screen handis rode across the line, much to the terror of the residents who summoned the American authorities, thinking that they were about to be attacked.

"THE RIGHT WAY"—LA CROSSE
No life story is complete without a woman. So therefore in the presentation of the Thomas Mott Osborne production of "The Right Way" at the La Crosse, Friday and Saturday.

Appetite Keen and Bowels Relieved day, woman plays a big part. Real living characters of the eternal feminine form integral parts of this corking big picture. Not one woman but many enable romance to wend its course through thrills and exciting climaxes that hold breathless suspense from start to finish. There is the woman of high society, the miss in reduced circumstances, the girl of the slums, the woman of the slums, and mother-love, all characteristic of real life in the Big City. And woman's joys and sorrows—her pangs of grief and her songs of happiness—all combine to make an impressive and all-absorbing story of true life in "The Right Way."

MAE MURRAY DESIGNS "BROADWAY ROSE" GOWNS

Among much talked of features of Mae Murray's recent photoplays, "Peacock Alley" and "Fascination," was the dazzling array of gowns that the blonde star wore in those productions. In her latest picture, "Broadway Rose," at the Riviera Theater, she is said to wear costumes that will make even the most fortunate woman gasp with envy. And the secret has leaked out that practically all of these gowns were made from Miss Murray's own designs.

"I find that all the soft music in the world is of no help to me in catching the necessary mood in acting for the camera unless I have the feeling that the costume I am wearing is the one exactly suited to that mood in color, design and appropriateness," says Miss Murray.

RIVIERA FRIDAY

Trivial incidents mould men's lives and are the cause of great events. This is as it was in the beginning and always will be. This same is true in the birth of great stories, famous paintings and plays and motion pictures that live forever.

Take that famous and everlasting play "A Fool There Was," which William Fox has just made into a wonderful dramatic photoplay, and which will be the attraction at the Riviera Theater Friday. The story of its conception goes back to the sensational picture "The Vampire" by Sir Philip Burne-Jones. What inspired Burne-Jones to paint the picture is not in the records. But the chances are that it was after reading Bram Stoker's "Dracula," that great story on human vampires, who live on the blood and strength of their victims.

HUNTER LOST IN WOODS

MEDFORD, Wis.—Arthur Prell, 16, has returned home after being lost in the woods for twenty-four hours. Prell left here with a party of young men to hunt partridges Sunday morning. He separated from the group and got lost. A general alarm was issued to join in a search for him and nearly every man and boy in Medford responded. Employees of the Medford Lumber company went out in squads to search for him.

BOYS SOON LEARN TO QUIT USING PROFANITY AT Y

Recently a patron of the Y. M. C. A. shocked and offended to hear swearing from the lips of a lad entering the Y., complained to the secretary.

The secretary, having studied boys, and having been a boy himself, knows boys, and replied: I am glad that boy came into this building, for I know he will soon learn that using profane language or swearing is useless and wrong, and before long he will discontinue such practice. If only model boys and young men entered its doors, the Y. M. C. A. would fail to fulfill its mission. Not by prohibiting signs, not by threats, but by example and an atmosphere of friendliness and helpfulness does the Y. M. C. A. strive to lead quietly but strongly into the better habits of life.

BIG LEAGUE SHOW IS GREETED WITH ENTHUSIASM HERE

First Unit of Metropolitan Vaudeville Pleases Big House at La Crosse Theatre

Patrons of the La Crosse theater were given a "big league" show Wednesday night, when Mr. J. J. Schubert presented his long heralded New York Winter Garden success, "The Whirl of New York." Those who were fortunate enough to be present are today singing the praises of a metropolitan production which went over big in La Crosse. That a capacity house will greet the second unit of this high class entertainment on October 25, when "The Midnight Rounders" appears, is assured. Several artists who stand out among the stellar lights in vaudeville appeared on the bill here last night. Roy Cummings was awarded honors among local critics for his laugh producing propensities. Cummings sings, dances and performs acrobatic antics which provoked screams of laughter in the house, once diving over the piano into the orchestra pit. His absurdities in the role of a lunatic and his snake-dance in imitation of an artist who had preceded him were real side-splitters. Cummings could easily put on a whole show. But there were several other entertainers who likewise are entitled to considerable credit for their part in this finished production. Kyra, who appears in oriental dances, combines several qualities found only in artists of the first rank. She dances with grace and expression and displays a litheness and suppleness of figure rather remarkable to behold. Her dance of idol worship was her best effort. Florence Schubert, the girl with a personality, sings and plays in charming style and drew her share of applause. Joe Keno and Rosie Green comprise an eccentric dancing team who scored big. Frank and Ray Purcella, who sing and dance, displayed pep and entertaining ability of no mean order. Ann Toddings is the sweet singer in the company and she was heard to good advantage in several of the old "Belle of New York" favorites. Jack Keller also has a voice of pleasing quality. The Hohlfield brothers in a tumbling act, perform sensational stunts on their hands. The costumes and scenery were handsome and elaborate and the electrical effects added to the finished tone of the production. The chorus was good looking and well trained. La Crosse wants more of this sort of entertainment, and will eagerly await the next production. Wednesday night, October 25. Great Britain's external debt is now more than 1,161,563,000 pounds, nearly all to the United States.

Old Papers Shipped to the Orient. One of the oddities of the Pacific trade is the shipment of old papers to the Orient. The consignment of several bales was sent from Portland, Wash., recently to Java where they are to be made use of in lining the walls of houses. This material has been going out of San Francisco for some little time to China where it is used in the manufacture of the crack-

The new Essex prices must appeal to all buyers. They get more for their money today than ever before. Actual price comparisons make the advantage unmistakably plain. Call to mind those cars you may consider in the Essex quality class. Then look at the prices. Are any within hundreds of dollars of the Essex price? In reaching a standard by which to understand Essex values you must consider such price contrasts as well as facts bearing on performance and reliability. Such examination will convince you of the overwhelming advantage Essex holds.

"A Fish Tale"

DO YOU recall that a fellow once sneakily rowed out to a spot in the lake where the largest bass in Christendom was said to be lurking? Of course, he didn't expect to catch the big whale; in fact, he was after sun-fish. But he was baited for bass. He cast off. Zing! The bottom of the lake grabbed his hook and started for China with it. Then the devil stepped in and, taking charge of the line, tied it into a hundred dainty knots. All the fellow did was hang onto the pole. Yet, after the tumult and the cussing died, there in the boat lay the biggest big-mouth of the season. Remember it? And how modest you felt to have folks point at you and say, "That's the guy that got that six-pounder?" If you want to live over again those old zero hours, light up a mind-clearing Senero, the cigar of pleasant memories.

SPARTA WITHDRAWS ITS SCHOOLS FROM COUNTY SUPERVISOR

Prof. Gunderson Chosen City Superintendent of Schools for this Year

SHERIFF AND STATE OFFICER SEIZE STILL, DESTROY MASH

Teachers from State Graded Schools Have Conference

SPARTA, Wis.—At a special meeting of the school board it was voted to withdraw the city schools from the county supervision, on the grounds that the interests of the city schools might be better served under the direct and independent supervision of a city superintendent of schools. The schools within the city limits will be under the supervision of the new superintendent, and any schools outside this limit will continue under the supervision of the county superintendent. One reason for this is to relieve the school district from paying any share of the expense of maintaining the office of county superintendent of schools. Prof. Gunderson has been chosen city superintendent of schools for the year.

Sheriff Seizes Still

Sheriff Torrence and William Davis and a state prohibition officer made a raid Sunday on the Len Iverson place, which is located on the line between Monroe and Jackson counties. The only persons on the place when the officers arrived upon the scene were a woman and child. Searching the place, they found on high stools and 150 gallons of mash. There were two goats and a few chickens around the place. Iverson was not to be found and they think he has left this part of the country.

Rev. Bowers of the town of La Grange was brought before Justice Lamson and charged with the manufacture of intoxicating liquor. He waived examination and was bound over to the county court under bonds of $500. Deputy Sheriff William Davis searched the Bowers place and found evidences of the work going on.

Steve Fast is Dead

Steve Fast, for many years employed as the telegraph operator at the Northwestern depot in this city, died October 6, at his home on Oak street. He had been in poor health for some time and on July 13 was taken so ill that he entered St. Mary's hospital for treatment. The forepart of September he was some better and returned to his home, but soon began to grow weaker and did not recover. He was born in Germany in 1874. When he was six years of age he came to this country with his parents. They settled at New Ulm, Minn. At the age of 16 he went to Janesville and entered a school of telegraphy. He came to Sparta at the age of 18 and accepted a position with the C. & N. W. railroad as telegraph operator and has been employed by them ever since.

On October 27 he was united in marriage to Augusta Split of Wilton. One daughter was born to them, Geraldine. Mrs. Fast died three years ago. The daughter survives, also his aged father, Math Fast, and three brothers, Bernard, Charles and Henry.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home, Rev. A. Berg officiating. Burial was made in the Lutheran cemetery.

The biennial conference of the supervising teachers of the western section of the state, will be held in Sparta, Friday, October 13. Miss Anna Reynolds of the state department will be present, and will give the principal address. The meeting will be held at the office of the county superintendent, Miss Harriet Hutson. The counties represented will be Vernon, Crawford, Juneau, Monroe and La Crosse.

A conference of the teachers from the eight state graded schools of the county was held Saturday at the office of County Superintendent Hutson. All but two of the teachers were present. W. T. Anderson, state inspector, spoke on the methods of teaching, how to make the schools more efficient, and related subjects. Each of the teachers present gave a three-minute talk on "My School Problems." The teachers present were Elsie Pelky, Cataract; Ada Smith, Ruth McCabe, Leon; Edith Heasty, Louise Erickson, Melvina; Gertrude Cafferty, Glendale; Clara Hanson, Eliza De Witt; Angelo; Eva Morris; Mildred Fryer; Irene Graham; Warren; Benneive Kennedy; Evelyn Kennedy; Valley Junction; Frances Martin; Julia Hendricks; Gladys Lamb; Wyeville.

Normal Notes

A mass meeting was held Thursday morning at the assembly period to elect cheer leaders for Friday's game, and to give the team some real yells to show them that the school is behind them. Howard Armstrong, Nick Stoneman, Bugbee Shirley, and Mr. Kemble of the faculty seem to be the most likely candidates for cheer leader.

A number of last year's graduates were here this week visiting old friends and places. Lila Shen, Lillian Willard, Larry Englehart were here last week-end, and enjoyed their visit very much.

Miss Angell of the art department, was called to her home on account of her mother's illness.

Rev. C. C. Rowleson, pastor of the Congregational church, addressed the students Wednesday morning on the subject, "The Future of Civilization."

Many students were astonished at the way some of our co-eds came to school this morning. They were dressed in many freakish ways, some chamber maids, who carry their brooms and dust pans with them.

Clears Skin of Pimples

Remarkable Action of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in Ridding Face of Pimples, Blemishes, Blotches, Etc.

You know what a tiny pinch of salutaris does when added to milk and acid. It stops curdling, and this is comparatively the same influence that takes place when you add calcium sulfide to the blood. It is a refining influence. Calcium is the principal agency in Stuart's Calcium Wafers and exerts a peculiar stimulus to skin repair. Pimples, blackheads and other such evidence of localized skin sluggishness are replaced with new material and soon the skin renews itself with firmer, healthier tissue. This makes the beautiful complexion so much admired. No use to hide pimples with cold cream and lotions. These blemishes either come from within or become localized if the calcium influence is lacking and they keep coming until such an influence as calcium is supplied by the blood.

Let nature clear your skin through the influence of Stuart's Calcium Wafers which you can obtain in any drug store at 60 cents a box. These wonderful wafers are used by thousands of women who have learned from experience their remarkable influence to make the skin beautiful and keep it so.

class to class, others as milk maids, and still others as little children who carried big dolls around all day.

Many of them were not admitted to class because they would keep the class in an uproar the whole hour. One freshman wanted to call the police, but he was finally calmed when he was told that the Forum club was having their annual initiation, and that it was a custom of the school.

Max Foscover, who has been out of school the last few days because of an injury received in football, is now able to hobble around the building with the aid of crutches.

Why Grandma's Linens Outlasted the Bride's

By JANE LEE (Reprinted by Request)

She spends her months of loving labor in filling her "dope chest" with beautiful linens and lingerie, just as her grandmother did before her. But when grandmother married she made her own laundry soap and her linens lasted nearly a lifetime. The linens of today are as good or better than grandmother's. But the modern wife washes them with common white or yellow laundry bars and buys new linens every year. Her undergarments and she calls it wear. Her sheets, tablecloths and napkins soon acquire mysterious little holes and she blames the materials or "wear."

The trouble is that women do not realize how destructive laundry soap can be. Fabric makers claim that common laundry soaps are only 1/4 to 1/2 soap, and the rest of the bar is made up of pasty "filler" without cleaning power—usually pasty water glass. This clings and crystallizes when the clothes dry, and cuts the threads like glass. Other "fillers" simply rot the goods—but the result is the same. So fabric makers wash their materials with olive oil soap and it gives them that cuddly softness, sweetness and snowy whiteness which every woman adores.

Careful women are learning to keep their like this and make them last as grandmother's did, by doing the family wash with pure GREEN ARROW soap made by The Palmolive Co., and containing—not "filler"—but real olive oil and naphtha.

Like fine castle, this large green laundry bar gets its color from the olive oil—nothing else. This bar gets its early title as far as the ordinary because it's all cleaning power, yet mild on clothes and hands. (Advertisement)
